1. Introduction of the Event

School of Architecture and Design conducted this one-day lecture cum workshop session by A. Shashi Raj in which various means on how to start with a design were communicated.

2. Objective of the Event

- To involve participation from the students.
- Intended to develop an understanding on how to start with the design process
- To address the basic requirements and elements of design.
- To make them aware of some common building elements.

3. Beneficiaries of the Event

Students from the B.Arch 1st year (1st Semester) School of Architecture and Design attended this workshop.

4. Brief Description of the event

Ar. Shashi Raj is an alumna of Manipal University Jaipur. He completed his graduation in architecture in 2017 and later after several years of practice under various architects, started his own practice based in Jaipur. Currently, a number of residential and commercial projects are running across the nation. School of Architecture and Design conducted a 1-day workshop to develop an understanding on how to start with a design project- focusing on the elements on design and finding solutions through critical thinking.

Being an alumna of Manipal University Jaipur, Shashi Raj was able to explain the design process to the students in a more relatable way, which was better understood by each and every student. The lecture cum workshop explained the design process step by step in an applicable manner. Several small activities were assigned to the students in order to help them explore and think about the various possibilities.
